

Finance Occupational Outlook

Employers expect college graduates to be good learners, to think critically and solve problems, to communicate clearly, to be self-directed, and to work well with others. The new workplace also requires people to be knowledgeable about hospitality skills and able to search out and apply skills in the areas of tourism management, and travel & tourism.

Job Description and Responsibilities

A Finance career begins with a formal qualification, and there are many opportunities available for candidates in the field. Most Financial Managers and professionals in this industry are involved with:

- Understanding various functions and applications of the market
- Learning how to allocate funds for the public and private sector
- Working with both domestic and international organisations
- Accessing financial information online
- Applying financial document information and developing strategies
- Working with financial trade analysts and budget departments
- Researching a client or organisation's financial status
- Making recommendations based on financial goals
- Developing cash management strategies and track investment activities
- Collaborating with financial departments to grow and acquire financial strengths
- Help build financial futures for business owners, homeowners, and companies

Finance Career Options

Common fields and positions on completion of the finance course include:

- Financial manager
- Securities broker
- Commodity contracts manager
- Insurance sales
- Financial analyst
- Controller
- Cash manager
- Accountant
- Auditor
- Insurance sales agents
- Loan officers
- Real estate brokers
- Insurance underwriters
- Risk or insurance manager
- Bank branch manager
- Personal financial or asset manager
- Business advisor
- Financial planner
- Financial consultant

A finance career is commonly found in banking, financial institutions, and government offices. Some financial managers choose to own and operate their own businesses and work as independent contractors.

Earning Potential and Employment Prospects

The demand for experienced financial professionals and advisors is steadily rising as more businesses, companies, and individuals are confronted with a competitive economy. Financial managers can be found in almost every industry, but the majority are employed by finance and insurance establishments such as banks and insurance carriers. With the ongoing rises and shifts in the economy, the need for specialised financial managers and professionals is increasing; employment for those who pursue a finance career is expected to grow for the next 10 years, and those at the managerial level will face the most competition. Financial managers in the securities and commodities industry are expected to be most favourable.

Average annual earning of financial managers is £40,000.